

About Raise The Bar Video Transcript

Heather Colohan, SAPAC Program Manager of Community Outreach and Systems Advocacy: “The work that I do at SAPAC is be the Program Manager of Community Outreach and Systems Advocacy. And I took a hard look at what our programming is missing and what we need to include to make it a more fulfilling situation for our students and our community members. One of those things that was clearly a gap was Raise The Bar. Raise the bar is a program to educate our community members, specifically at local establishments in Ann Arbor, about how to be trained in being a proactive bystander in a situation where they might see that there is harmful behavior happening with their patrons at their bar. We want to make sure that they have awareness; we want to make sure that they have tangible skills and can walk out of the room feeling totally confident in what they’re doing. We also, at the end of the day, want to decrease the incidences of sexual violence on our campus at University of Michigan as well as in the larger Ann Arbor community. And that’s our end goal. So Raise The Bar, it’s a great robust program and we’re always looking to get more folks involved and trained on our campus and in the Ann Arbor community.”

Kaitlin Deslatte, University of Michigan Police Officer: “It’s time”

Aysha Abiade, SAPAC Advocate: “It’s time”

Student: “It’s time”

Heather Colohan, SAPAC Program Manager of Community Outreach and Systems Advocacy: “To Raise”

Student: “The bar”

Student: “The bar”

Student: “The bar”

Student: “So going out”

Kaitlin Deslatte, University of Michigan Police Officer: “Is safer”

Student: “And more”

Student: “Inclusive”

Heather Colohan, SAPAC Program Manager of Community Outreach and Systems Advocacy: “Schedule Your”

Aysha Abiade, SAPAC Advocate: “Raise The Bar Training”

Student: “Today.”